A MESSAGE

from Lea Ypi

I have long thought about organising a literary festival in Albania. The tradition is well-established in the UK, where I live, and having spoken at many such events since the warm reception of my book Free in the UK, I thought it would be wonderful to organise an event bringing some of my favourite authors to my home country. Thus, I called Joanne Ooi, the founder of one of my favourite events in the UK, EA Festival, and invited her to join me in the production of an Albanian equivalent. The result is Freedom & Transformation, a British-Albanian weekend that promises to be a vibrant celebration of literature, art, and their transformative power with some of the world's top thinkers.

We wanted as many people as possible to come, and so decided to hold it in two cities, Tirana (where I was born) and Durrës (where I grew up). This will give international visitors a chance to learn more about Albania: a country with an exceptionally rich culture, at the intersection of East and West, where ideas have often clashed tragically, and where the lessons of history are still being absorbed. Freedom & Transformation aims to provide a venue for provoking thought, challenging assumptions, and inspiring action.

In the last few decades, Albania has undergone radical change, and increasingly features on the world's top new tourist destinations. Yet exploring culture enables people to engage a new context with much more nuance and greater critical awareness. Our conversations, ranging from Balkan history and culture to human rights, from migration to security, from politics to poetry, aim to create a space where diverse voices can come together to reflect on the past and reimagine the future. As someone deeply committed to the power of art to effect change, both in oneself, and in society, I am delighted to co-curate this festival with EA Festival. It is an opportunity for engagement, critique, and finding hope. I hope you will join us.

DY FJALË

nga Lea Ypi

Prej kohësh mendoja organizimin e një festivali letrar në Shqipëri, traditë mjaft e përhapur në Mbretërinë e Bashkuar, ku jetoj e punoj. Pas pjesëmarrjes në disa prej tyre falë pritjes së ngrohtë nga lexuesit britanikë të librit tim Të Lirë, dëshira për të sjellë diçka të ngjashme në Shqipëri bëri që të lidhem me Joanne Ooi, themeluesen e EA Festival, një prej festivaleve letrare të mi më të dashur. Ajo e pranoi me kënaqësi ftesën për të bashkëpunuar në Shqipëri. Kështu nisi të marrë formë "Liri dhe Transformim", fundjavë britaniko-shqiptare e planifikuar për në shtator të këtij viti e cila shpresoj të jetë njëkohësisht edhe kremtim i fuqisë përmirësuese të letërsisë e artit me disa nga shkrimtarët, publicistët dhe mendimtarët më të njohur në botë.

Për të mundësuar një pjesëmarrje sa më të gjerë vendosëm që festivalin ta mbajmë në dy qytete, Tiranë dhe Durrës. Kësisoj vizitorët e huaj do të mësojnë më shumë për Shqipërinë, një vend me kulturë jashtëzakonisht të pasur, në atë udhëkryq mes Perëndimit e Lindjes, ku idetë shpesh janë përplasur tragjikisht e ku mësimet e historisë ndonjëherë përthithen me vështirësi. "Liri dhe Transformim" është një platformë kulturore ku për dy ditë me radhë do të mund të gjallërojmë debati pa paragjykime, të shkëmbehen mendime rreth letërsisë, politikës, artit, shoqërisë e mbase edhe të frymëzohen nisma kulturore të mëtejshme.

Në dekadat e fundit, Shqipëria ka përjetuar ndryshime rrënjësore, duke u rreshtuar sa vjen e më shpesh në kataloget e stacioneve turistike më të dëshiruara në botë. Megjithatë, të njohësh kulturën e një vendi do të thotë të interpretosh kontekstin përtej stereotipeve pozitive e negative, duke zbuluar ndërgjegjen kritike, e cila është e domosdoshme për të patur ndryshimet e duhura. Debatet në panelet tona, që do të mbulojnë tema nga historia dhe kultura ballkanike deri tek të drejtat e njeriut, nga migracioni tek çështjet e sigurisë, nga politika te poezia, synojnë të krijojnë një hapësirë ku zëra të ndryshëm si të huaj ashtu edhe vendas të bashkohen për të reflektuar sa më thellë rreth të kaluarës e për të përfytyruar një të ardhme sa më të lirë e të drejtë.

Kam besuar gjithnjë fort në aftësinë e letërsisë dhe artit për të ndryshuar mendje e zemra, si brenda individëve ashtu edhe në shoqëri. Ky bashkëpunim me EA festival është një kënaqësi e veçantë, me shpresën që do të shërbeje edhe në Shqipëri si një kontribut modest në pelegrinazhin drejt shpresës. Uroj që të na bashkohen sa më shumë nga ju.

SIR NOEL MALCOLM

Noel is a Senior Research Fellow at All Souls College, Oxford, and a member of the British Academy. He has published widely on intellectual, cultural and social history, and has edited Thomas Hobbes's Leviathan and his correspondence. His works on Balkan history include Bosnia: A Short History; Kosovo: A Short History; Agents of Empire; and Rebels, Believers, Survivors: Studies in the History of the Albanians. He is President of the Anglo-Albanian Association, a Foreign Member of the Academy of Sciences and Arts of Kosovo, and an Honorary Member of the Academy of Sciences of Albania. He was knighted in 2014 for services to scholarship, journalism, and European history.

WILLIAM SIEGHART

The founder of National Poetry Day and the international Forward Prizes for Poetry, William is Britain's "Mr. Poetry". Several years ago, seeking to share his love of poetry with the public, he set up poetry "pharmacies" in literary festivals around the UK, only to find people queuing for hours to receive his personalized prescriptions - poems selected and read aloud by him to salve their ailments. Wanting to widen access to his "prescriptions", he published The Poetry Pharmacy, a series of poetry anthologies, now in their third, best-selling edition.

ABOUT

Festival

EA Festival is the producer of two biennial festivals, EA Festival, an ideas and literary festival, and EA Sustain, a festival about Environment, Culture and Entrepreneurship. Since its launch in 2021, EA Festival has become the top ideas festival in the East of England. Both festivals are known for the excellence of their speakers and, in the case of EA Festival, its smorgasbord approach to curation. Topics range widely, from art and literature to regenerative farming and psychedelic drugs. In addition, EA Festival produces events in partnership with many leading cultural organisations including the Food Museum, Jockey Club Rooms, Gainsborough's House, Battersea Power Station and Essex Book Festival. This autumn will see the launch of a new event series at Tate Modern – Corner Conversations: EA Festival x Tate Modern.
